

Getting Up to Speed with Transportation Economic Tools

Client

American Planning Association (APA)

Facts

Period

2013

Project Country

United States

Glen Weisbrod co-authored an article for the October 2013 issue of Planning Magazine, a publication of the American Planning Association (APA). Weisbrod collaborated with Julie Lorenz of Burns and McDonnell to co-author, "Getting Up to Speed with Transportation Economic Tools," which discusses how a growing number of agencies are showing that economic impact analysis can be used in decision-making across every planning stage — with positive results.

Contact Persons